REPORT TO THE OPERATIONS COORDINATING BOARD ON THE REFUGEE RELIEF ACT

Two types of applicants are involved in visa actions under the Refugee Relief Act:

- (1) The refugees, escapees, expellees and orphans listed in Sections 4 and 5 of the Act, who must present assurances from American citizens as a step in qualifying for a visa and,
- (2) Those persons of Italian, Dutch and Greek ethnic origin whose preference status under the quota as relatives of U.S. citizens is established under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

The basic background and problems with respect to these two categories are set forth below. In addition, there are attached a table indicating the status of visa applications as of May 17 and a separate table showing the progress of the Italian preference cases which are being given priority attention.

I. Escapees and Refugees

1. The Refugee Relief Act specifically authorizes the issuance of "not to exceed 35,000" special non-quota immigrant visas to escapees residing in the area of the German Federal Republic or in the Western Sections of Berlin or Vienna; "not to exceed 10,000" such visas to escapees in the NATO countries on the continent of Europe; and these numbers include the visas which may be issued to the spouses and children of such escapees.

2. The Refugee Relief Act also authorizes the issuance of 86,000 special non-quota immigrant visas to refugees, their spouses and children.

3. All escapees must be refugees, under the Act, but all refugees do not have to be escapees. The term "refugee" as used in the Act is broad enough, for example, to include the victims of the floods in Holland, Italy, or Japan; the earthquakes in Greece; and the persons who were displaced from their normal places of abode within a country because of military operations, none of whom are escapees. An escapee, however, is a refugee who has fled from a Communist, Communist-dominated, or Communist-occupied area.

4. Any alien who has been firmly resettled has lost the status of a refugee or of an escapee under the Act, and such persons may immigrate into the United States only under the general immigration laws.

5. The most important provision of the Act, so far as estimating the number of escapee and refugee applicants for visas is concerned, is Section 7, which requires that each escapee or refugee shall be the beneficiary of an assurance of suitable employment, housing, and support given by an American citizen or citizens. Blanket assurances are ruled out. This Section also requires other important documentation. No one can predict at this time the number of aliens for whom assurances may be given or the number who may be able to obtain the necessary documents. To date only 5,046 assurances have been received by the Administrator.

6. At the present time there are 183,167 prospective immigrants registered at American Consular offices in Germany under various quotas but of these only 9,851 have applied for registration under the Refugee Relief Act. The first requisite for each applicant for a visa under the Refugee Relief Act is an assurance of suitable employment, housing, and support given in his behalf by some American citizen or citizens. Up to May 1, 1954 the Administrator of the Refugee Relief Act had received only 880 such assurances for aliens in Germany. This is the maximum number of visas which could have been issued under the Refugee Relief Act in Germany up to May 1, 1954, and this total is based on the obviously unsafe assumption that all of the alien beneficiaries of the 880 assurances are fully qualified for visas in all other respects under the immigration laws.

7. One of the most important provisions of Section 7 of the Refugee Relief Act is that of paragraph (d), clause (2). Precisely, Section 7(d)(2) of the Act states:

"No alien shall be issued a visa under this Act or be admitted into the United States unless he shall present to the consular officer at the time of making application for a visa ... a certificate of readmission guaranteeing his readmission to the country in which he obtains a visa under this Act if it is subsequently found that he obtained a visa under this Act by fraud or by misrepresenting a material fact."

8. The following countries or areas have agreed to issue the return guarantee certificates required by Section 7(d)(2) of the Refugee Relief Act, or a diplomatic note in lieu thereof which accomplishes the same purpose:

Austria
Belgium
France
Germany
Greece

Italy
Japan
Korea
Hong Kong
Netherlands

9. 83

9. As of May 1, a total of 5,046 assurances covering employment, housing and support given by an American citizen or citizens have been submitted. Of these, 2,726 were for Greek refugees and 1,227 for escapees and refugees in Germany and Austria. Of the total assurances received, 1,497 have been reviewed by the Visa Office and 332 have been verified for transmission to the field.

10. The United States Employment Service, with the assistance of its affiliated State Employment Services, which processes and certifies the assurances of employment on behalf of the Administrator of the Refugee Relief Act, has processed a total of 5,632 employment assurances.

II. Preference Cases

1. There are now some 40,000 preference cases already on file at our Italian posts. At the request of the Administrator, operations have been designed to give priority attention to Italy because action on preference cases need not await receipt of assurances. The objective is to complete some 7,000 visa actions by July 1, 1954, and to issue 60,000 visas by June 1, 1955 on the assumption that the Senate will approve HR 8193 expanding the "preference" category. It is expected that work on the preference cases will begin to decline approximately at the time the volume of assurances in Austria, Germany, the Netherlands and the NATO countries reaches a peak. To the extent practicable, therefore, experienced staff can be shifted from Italy to meet the increasing workload in other areas.

2. In the Netherlands, as against a preference quota of 2,000 under the Refugee Relief Act, only 186 applications have been received.

III. Progress of the Program

1. In his First Semi-Annual Report to the President and to Congress which was published in January, the Administrator set forth the estimated volume of visas which he planned to issue, as follows:

"From Aug. 7, 1953, to June 30, 1954 ...	15,000
From July 1, 1954, to June 30, 1955 ...	65,000
From July 1, 1955, to June 30, 1956 ...	82,000
From July 1, 1956, to Dec. 31, 1956 ...	47,000
Total authorized by the Act	209,000"

2. Due to unforeseeable circumstances beyond the control of the Administrator he was not able to recruit, screen, appoint, train, transport and establish in available working and living quarters abroad the necessary personnel

personnel to initiate operations under the Refugee Relief Program in accordance with the plans published. Staffing requirements for fiscal year 1954 total 1181 of which 483 are allocated to Italy. Of this total, 568 were on the roll May 7, of which 297 were for Italy. While the number on the roll as of May 7 represents only 42% of the requirements, it should be pointed out that staffing of American employees is 64% complete. For the State Department, American staffing is 74% complete. While the figures just cited for Italy indicate that the total staffing is 61% complete, American staffing for Italy is 83% complete. Available housing was in most critical shortage abroad, qualified personnel was most difficult to find, office fixtures, furniture, equipment and supplies were slow in procurement, and some of the foreign countries in which the Program could operate have not, even at this late date, agreed to issue the documents required of visa applicants in their jurisdictions. However, the Program is now operating in several countries and the attached tabulations will show the status of the cases in the visa pipeline in such countries and the visas which have been issued and refused. While the estimated target of 15,000 visas by June 30, 1954 will not be met, it is expected that the June 30, 1955 target will be exceeded.

ADJUSTMENT OF STATUS
